Technical and health matters

9. After a constructive debate, the Board noted the report on pandemic influenza preparedness: sharing of influenza viruses and access to vaccines and other benefits. The Director-General assured members that, since the Intergovernmental Meeting, a tracking system to enhance transparency in the movement of viruses had been set up and advisory mechanisms were being prepared in consultation with Member States.

10. The Board adopted resolution EB122.R1 on the mechanism for management of potential risks to eradication of poliomyelitis. This recommended a resolution to the Health Assembly, which requested the Director-General, inter alia, to undertake the necessary research to characterize fully the long-term risks and to develop appropriate responses, and to develop a new strategy for a renewed fight to eradicate poliomyelitis from the remaining affected countries.

11. In the course of the debate on implementation of the International Health Regulations (2005), the Chairman of the Board ruled that a draft resolution proposed by three members was inadmissible. After extensive discussion and a roll-call vote on a proposed amendment, the Board adopted an amended version of the resolution contained in the Secretariat's report. Resolution EB122.R3 recommended a draft resolution to the Health Assembly, which included reporting requirements on the implementation of the Regulations and requested the Director-General, inter alia, to provide support to Member States with most vulnerable health systems in strengthening core capacity requirements for surveillance and response.

12. The Board, recognizing the importance of the topic of climate change and health, had agreed to include a supplementary item on its agenda. 16. Following extensive discussion of the global immunization strategy and numerous proposed amendments to the Secretariat's draft resolution, the Board adopted resolution EB122.R7, which recommended adoption of a resolution to the Health Assembly. Among other things, that draft resolution urged Member States to implement fully the strategy for reducing measles mortality, to enhance efforts to improve delivery of high-quality immunization services, and to expand access to new life-saving vaccines. It also requested the Director-General to sustain political commitment, to collaborate with international partners, donors and vaccine producers, and to take measures to expand developing countries' supply of affordable vaccines.

17. Members considered the supplementary agenda item proposed by several Member States on the monitoring of health-related Millennium Development Goals, and agreed to include the topic on the provisional agenda of the Sixty-first World Health Assembly together with the draft resolution that had been proposed. Similarly, although members welcomed the draft action plan on the prevention and control of noncommunicable diseases, they needed more time to reflect on its contents. 26. Board members were not able to reach consensus on the matter of geographical rotation of the position of Director-General, and it was evident that there was no agreement among WHO regions themselves. Members agreed that the regional committees should discuss the issue and reach a consensus that would guide the Board in its future deliberations.

27. In the discussion on the United Nations reform process and WHO's role in harmonization of operational development activities at country level, the Director-General assured the Board that reform remained her top priority. The Board noted the report.
