Déclaration de la délégation suisse

Thank you chair,

Switzerland thanks the Secretariat for the documents provided. Our complete statements will be sent to be published on the website.

On WHO Global Code of Practice, Switzerland thanks the Expert Advisory Group for their commitment and recommendations. We welcome the decision to pursue discussions and organize informal consultations, which we believe should be concise and focus solely on the recommendations of the expert group.

On the Global Action Plan on antimicrobial resistance, Switzerland fully supports the updated plan, which strengthens the multisectoral approach and integrates new international political commitments, including the UN Political Declaration.

We reaffirm our strong commitment to the One Health approach, in line with our Swiss Strategy on Antibiotic Resistance and our One Health Action Plan 2024-2027.

We emphasize the importance of strengthening national and international surveillance systems for antimicrobial resistance and use and welcome efforts to further improve data quality and comparability within the Global AMR Surveillance System.

Finally, we underscore the importance of research and innovation to support development of new antimicrobials and complementary approaches to reduce reliance on antimicrobials and preserve their effectiveness.

On the Global Digital Health Strategy, Switzerland supports its development and we are looking forward to the consultations on the zero draft. We encourage that AI readiness will be addressed to ensure that countries and health systems can safely and effectively adopt AI-driven solutions. We further encourage close cooperation with relevant organizations and stakeholders to use synergies and ensure alignment with national and international priorities.

Thank you.
