| Annex. Numbers of medical schools in 1955, 1960, and 1967: comparative list | | 39 | |

PREFACE

The Third Edition of the World Directory of Medical Schools¹ was published in 1963, and contained information relating to the year 1960. Since it is not planned to issue a new edition of the Directory for some years, this Supplement has been prepared to provide information on schools established, or recognized by governments, between 1960 and 1967.

Some 120 medical schools are listed; they are located in 52 countries, including 15 countries where there was previously no medical school. Brief statistical data are also given, where available. Changes in the number of medical schools in 101 countries between 1955 and 1967 are shown in an annex.

Other volumes in the series: World Directory of Post-Basic and Post-Graduate Schools of Nursing, 1965; World Directory of Schools of Pharmacy, 1963, 1966; World Directory of Dental Schools, 1963, 1967; World Directory of Veterinary Schools, 1964, 1968; World Directory of Schools of Public Health, 1965, 1968.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The information contained in this Supplement refers to the year 1967, unless otherwise stated. The countries are listed in alphabetical order. Details of systems of medical education in most of the countries will be found in the Third Edition of the Directory.

The schools in each country are listed alphabetically in a table, as follows:

(1) By city. (Exceptions are Brazil, India, the USSR and the USA, where the schools are listed first under the state or republic and then under the city.)

(2) By institution.

The following notes, which deal in turn with each column in the table, explain the symbols used and give an indication of the system adopted in the compilation of the tables.

Column 1 — Name and address of school

The name and address of the institution are given in the language of the country concerned unless that language does not use the Roman alphabet, in which case an English version is given.

Column 2 — Year instruction started

This refers to the year in which medical education was first given at the teaching institution, and does not necessarily correspond to the date of the founding of the institution as a whole.

Column 3 — Teaching staff

This refers to the number of persons officially connected with the institution as teachers, regardless of faculty rank. An attempt has been made to classify these teachers according to whether they work full time (ft) or part time (pt), the term "full time" referring to employment that excludes any professional activity outside the teaching institution.

Column 4 — Total enrolment

This refers to the number of students enrolled at the medical school in all classes. Wherever known, the numbers of male (m) and female (f) students are given separately.

Column 5 — Admissions

This refers to the number of first-year students who commenced studies at the institution during the reference year. Wherever known, the numbers of male (m) and female (f) students are given separately.

Column 6 — Graduates

This refers to the number of persons who were awarded medical degrees or diplomas during the reference year. Wherever known, the numbers of male (m) and female (f) graduates are given separately. The symbol (—) indicates that the school either does not offer a complete course or is of too recent foundation for any of its students to have graduated.

Column 7 — Tuition fees

This column shows the amount charged (in local currency) in the reference year for entry fees, tuition fees, laboratory fees, etc. It does not include board, lodging, other living expenses, or transportation to or from the student's home. The letters R and NR, used in some instances, apply respectively to residents and non-residents of the particular country, province, or municipality, as the case may be.
