

Violence against women

A priority health issue

Contents

Introduction

Statement from the WHO Director-General

Definition and scope of the problem

Violence against women in families

Rape and sexual assault

Violence against women in situations of armed conflict and displacement

The girl child

Health consequences

What health workers can do

What WHO is doing

What non-governmental organizations are doing

Selected human rights documents, United Nations declarations and treaties

Selected readings

World Health Assembly Resolution 49.25

Family and Reproductive Health

World Health Organization, Geneva, 1997